

1 of a violation of a right as opposed to the question of
2 setting bail, period?

3 In other words, setting a bail, denying
4 a bail and the question of excessive bail are two dif-
5 ferent propositions, that pertain to the rights of indi-
6 viduals.

7 DELEGATE CHILD: I don't think so.

8 DELEGATE JAMES: Delegate Bothe.

9 DELEGATE BOTHE: Delegate Child, you have
10 referred several times in your discussion and in answering
11 questions to the potential dangerousness of this cir-
12 cumstance, and you have cited that people who might go
13 out pending trial and commit additional crimes ought per-
14 haps be retained at the discretion of the court.

15 You are aware, I am sure, that for all but
16 capital cases in this state right now a person is entitled
17 to the setting of bail in some amount.

18 DELEGATE JAMES: Delegate Child.

19 DELEGATE CHILD: In judgment cases?

20 DELEGATE BOTHE: Using your example of the 21 individual who has assaulted and who the court might
